BERLIN, April 4.—Adolf Hitler hastened back to Berlin today from his North Sea cruise as the officially inspired German press thundered warnings to Great Britain that Germany may act to halt any British move to encircle the Reich.

London must choose whether to conciliate or to alienate Germany, propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper, Der Angriff, declared today as the entire press hit out angrily at British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's speech before the house of commons.

Will Cut Last Ties
"It is London's choice," Der Angriff asserted. "Either a way will be found during these days, or the last ties will be definitely cut. Then there will not be a dog left in Germany who would accept a piece of bread from England."

PA NEW OBSERVES

Two men, shouldering guns, were going along Crawford avenue Monday afternoon, travelling east. Being a sunny afternoon, it is presumed they were going out to see if they could "knock off" a groundhog or two.

Good progress is being made on the Huron avenue park project. The section of street between Lathrop street and Beckford street is now ready for the crushed stone base.

Vacation week is no picnic for some New Castle youngsters, who are having their tonsils out, so that the sore throats can be healed up by the time school sessions resume next week. Pa New notes a big increase in this form of surgery this week.

Vegetation has been pretty much at a standstill during the past week, because of the cold weather. However, when spring finally does arrive, it will probably be here to stay, and it is not many days off now.

At 11:30 o'clock last night, there was quite a flurry of snow, which lasted for but a few minutes and melted off at once.

With route 422 detoured from New Castle to Slippery Rock, why wouldn't it be a good idea to detour the route through North street from Croton to Jefferson?

The shiny surface of the fender on a new car brought near disaster to a fat robin Monday afternoon as Pa New watched the bird, who sitting on the fender, suddenly observed his reflection on the car and began earnestly to attack it, thinking—

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 4.—Bituminous operators and union representatives disclosed today that attempts to negotiate a contract for approximately 320,000 miners now idle in the Appalachian field have failed.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 4.—The return to work of 320,000 soft coal miners in the Appalachian field and neighboring Alabama hinged today upon the success of mine operators' efforts to form a united front for today's conference between bargaining sub-committees.

Roughly, two courses are open to the operators. They may accept the offer of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, which was called to their attention by Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, or they may formulate a new basis for negotiations. Both groups were previously hopelessly deadlocked over proposed wage-hour standard revisions. Lewis offered a new two-year labor agreement for the industry calling for the prevailing six dollars daily pay and 35-hour week in return for either the closed shop or abolition of strike penalties. Under the contract which expired Friday the union was liable for fines as high as two dollars a day for every member involved in strikes which were outlawed in the past.

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—An unidentified man leaped 75 feet into the Monongahela river from the South 22nd street bridge today and after apparently changing his mind, lost out in an attempt to swim to shore and safety. He was drowned. On the bridge he left a worn gray topcoat and a brown felt hat. In an overcoat pocket was a paper testifying to two years service in the navy. The name had been torn off. River Patrolman John W. Greeney started to drag the river for the body immediately. Several men in a skiff made a vain attempt to reach the man before he sank.

Expect Approval Of Tax Bills Next Week

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 4.—The emergency tax bills of the James administration were tentatively slated today to be reported out of senate committee Monday and enacted into law next week.

Sen. G. Mason Owlett, Republican floor leader and chairman of the senate finance committee, announced the committee would hold its second hearing on the bills tomorrow, following one held yesterday, and then report the bills out.

Senator Owlett said that despite the desire expressed by various groups to see the bills revised to aid business, a scrutiny of the bills by the finance committee failed to show how this could materially be accomplished without reducing the $163,000,000 it is hoped to raise by re-enactment of the Earle administration bills.

Present indications therefore were, he said, that the only changes made in the eight bills would be "technical." The bills have already passed the house and following passage by the senate will go to the governor for his signature.

Chamberlain Declares Britain Is Ready To Aid Any Menaced Nation

LONDON, April 4.—Vital anti-aggression conversations between Great Britain and Poland were launched today while London resounded to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's declaration that Britain is ready to aid any nation menaced by Germany.

Beginning talks which the British government hopes will cement its "Stop Hitler" drive, Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck, accompanied by Ambassador Count Edward Raczynski and numerous experts, met British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax and his aides at the foreign office.

Basic Question

Polish circles indicated that the basic question which evolved during the first phase of the Anglo-Polish discussions was Britain's interim pledge of military assistance to Poland in the event of threat to her independence.

Beck was understood to take the stand that Poland considers it a moral obligation on Britain's part to transform the unilateral guaranty into a mutual agreement whereby either Britain or Poland would go to each other's aid in the event of attack by a third nation.

After a decision is reached on this point, the talks were expected to turn toward methods of implementing the reciprocal guaranty and of making it more comprehensive. No

President To Seek Rail Legislation

Desires Action On Big Problem

Remedial Legislation To Be Sought Before Present Session Adjourns

MAY SHAPE BILL WITHIN MONTH

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Roosevelt has informed congressional leaders in railroad legislation that he is anxious for passage of remedial legislation before congress adjourns.

With the administration actively backing railroad relief measures, both the senate and house interstate commerce committees today redoubled efforts to place bills before both branches of congress.

While conflicting demands of competing forms of transportation appeared weeks ago to doom any legislation, Chairman Clarence Lea of the house committee, today expressed optimism over chances of action. One of the chief objectives of backers of railroad legislation, it was disclosed, will be the placing of regulation of the principal competitive forms of transportation—railroad, motor truck and water—under one regulatory head.

"I rather think that we will get a bill to the house before May 1," said Lea. "There are conflicting interests and ideas, but we hope to work out a satisfactory bill. It would seem that regulation of competing forms of transportation is so fundamental that any legislation omitting proposals to meet this situation would contain a serious defect."

more populated areas like Bessemer, New Bedford, Piquette, etc. Other areas in the county that would not warrant the establishing of a branch, would be serviced by a library truck, making periodical visits to the districts.

According to Dr. Rafter and Miss Sterling, first move to establish a county system is up to the residents of the county to appeal to their county commissioners. The commissioners would then appropriate a sum of money for the project, and the state would provide 50 per cent of the needed capital.

For the first year, a county library system would be supplied with about 1,500 books from the state library, thus lowering the initial cost of establishing such a system.

HITLER HASTENS BACK TO BERLIN FROM NORTH SEA

mounted steadily as Hitler journeyed today from Hamburg to the capital. The Chamberlain speech was the principal target of the attacks.

After the British premier told the house of commons in London that Britain and France would defend all countries, as well as Poland, which felt their independence menaced by the Reich, a highly significant statement was issued in Berlin, obviously inspired by the German foreign office.

Plan To "Encircle"

This called the Chamberlain speech, as well as one by British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, renewed evidence that the British government is planning to "encircle" the Reich under the guise of peaceful assertions.

(Background note: In London, Chamberlain told the house of commons: "We are concerned to preserve not only the independence of this country (Poland), but also the independence of all states which might be threatened by aggression." British Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon lent further point to Chamberlain's remarks by adding: "Germany's right to live in space cannot possibly be granted at the expense of living room for smaller nations.") ing it another bird. The more the robin fought, the image became equally angry and there was quite a battle until Pa News interrupted and frightened the bird away.

Pa News was reminded today that a year ago Monday, the city was blanketed by snow.

Those few days of unseasonably warm weather we experienced about a week ago, have sort of spoiled us and we have been feeling that the cold snap which followed was unseasonable, but in case you forget what it was like a year ago at this time, we beg to remind you that a year ago the temperature was down below freezing almost every day from April 2 until April 11, and we had snow on seven out of those first ten days, more than an inch falling on three different days.

Pa News notes that work is in progress on the Boyles field playground, clearing the stones off the plot. Wonder if anything is to be done about tennis courts for this plot?

Housecleaning is well under way in many New Castle homes, despite the fact that winter still clings tenaciously, as far as atmospheric conditions are concerned.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea to build a few small temporary dams in the Neshannock creek, through the city, to keep the stream bottom covered over with water during the summer. It would certainly add to the appearance of the stream.

In 1932 the mandate was terminated and Iraq was admitted to the league of nations.

The first king, Emir Faisal, was proclaimed monarch in 1921 following a plebiscite in which 96 per cent of the population voted for him. He died in 1933, at which time Ghazi became king. ### BRITAIN-POLAND DISCUSS PLANS TO HALT AGGRESSION official communiqué was issued during the forenoon, and it was presumed that an announcement would be withheld until definite decisions were reached.

Intense interest of the American government in the proceedings was revealed when arrangements were made for a meeting tomorrow between Beck and United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

The talks between Beck and Lord Halifax will continue virtually all day—without even time out for meals. At luncheon Beck will be a guest of Lord Halifax and at dinner the Polish diplomat will be the official guest of the British foreign office.

on a hill on the Weymouth-Brain tree line, were found soon after the crash. One body was in the flaming plane and the other was found about 100 feet away indicating he attempted to bail out but his parachute failed to open.

One body was seen in the wreckage of the second plane which crashed into two roof-tops. Search was started in the area for the second body in the belief the airman too may have tried to bail out.

One plane sheared off the roof of an East Braintree home but a three-month-old child asleep in the house was uninjured. Then the plane smashed into another house across the street and burst into flames.

The second plane landed on a hill on the Weymouth-Brain tree line and burst into flames. The pilot of this plane leaped over the side but failed to bail out in time.

Some of this year's graduates will climb fast, and some will think they are the only smart fellows in a land of dumb clucks and crooks.

Hines Freed On Doubt Certificate

Appeal By Convicted Former Tammany Chief May Not Come Up Before Fall

(International News Service) NEW YORK, April 4.—Release of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines from the toms where he has been imprisoned for slightly more than a week was granted today.

Hines' motion for a certificate of reasonable doubt was approved, thereby permitting his release in $35,000 bail until an appeal of his conviction as the paid protector for the Dutch Schultz mob is taken.

Because of summer vacations and necessary legal steps, the appeal may not be taken up before fall. He is under a prison sentence of four to eight years.

SPEAKER HEARD AT MEETING OF D. A. R.

Lawrence chapter of the local Daughters of the American Revolution assembled in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. Saturday afternoon, when they had the privilege of hearing as guest speaker Mrs. Joseph C. Stahlman of Vandergrift, chairman of conservation and thrift of the state of Pennsylvania.

She told of the extensive planting of trees in forests and urged the support of the local chapter in promoting this project by planting a share in the Warren, Pa., federal forest. This formed a part of the future plans of the local organization, which was outlined at the business meeting just preceding.

Also, the local chapter established a scholarship for Girl Scouts approaching camp season, to enable girls to enjoy a period of camp life this summer.

Regent Mrs. W. R. Campbell presided over the business period and ritual work, which launched activities at 2:30 o'clock.

A social period concluded the informal program, with refreshments being served from an attractively arranged table. Those sharing as co-hostesses were: Miss Nettie Hinkson, Miss Maude Mitchell, Miss Nannie Mitchell, Miss Jennie Morgan, Miss Helen Moseley, Miss Marjorie McAnis, Miss Helen White, Mrs. Joseph McMillen, Mrs. Clark McCombs, Mrs. William D. McCreery, Mrs. R. N. Neale, Mrs. John Norris, Mrs. Joseph Walker and Mrs. W. R. Campbell.

The next meeting of the D. A. R. will be held Saturday, May 6.

Mrs. Richard E. Rentz was welcomed as a new member.

The program followed, in charge of Mrs. I. M. Henley, who gave the first feature. She read an especially interesting paper on George Grey Bernard, sculptor prepared by Mrs. C. M. Bannan. Another splendid paper on "Women In Industry" was contributed by Mrs. Harry Lampe.

Following a short discussion, Miss Natalie Ehrlich, daughter of the hostess, delighted the assembly with a piano selection entitled, "Sonata Pathétique" by Beethoven.

On Monday, April 17, Mrs. J. F. Rentz will receive members at her residence on Winter avenue.

Important Dates Listed For Woman's Club; Speaker Heard

In response to repeated requests, Woman's club will sponsor a series of three book reviews by Frances Hannel of Youngstown, in the near future.

Dates set are on Tuesdays, April 11, 18, and May 2. On the first and last occasions, the reviews will be given in the morning at 10 o'clock, while the one on April 18 will be an evening affair at 8 o'clock. The place, centrally located, is the ballroom of the Castleton hotel.

Other important business transacted at the regular meeting Monday afternoon in Highland U. P. church, concerned club representation at the state convention to be held at Buckhill Falls, Pa., May 23, 24, 25, and at the meeting of the Lawrence County Federation scheduled for April 26, in the First U. P. church on Glenmore boulevard.

Mrs. A. B. Foster, president of Woman's club, will attend the former as club delegate. Other local women who will leave for Buckhill Falls on Monday, May 23, are Mrs. Harry L. Gormley, president of the County Federation, and Mrs. William Margraf, chairman of the new program committee of Woman's club.

For the county meeting in New Castle on the 26th, the following women from the different departments were named as voting delegates: Mrs. Verne Dufford, Mrs. T. A. Gilkey, Mrs. Raymond Horch, Mrs. William Margraf, Mrs. Earl Wimer, Mrs. W. A. Woodworth, Mrs. Joel McKee, Mrs. Louis Kolb.

Since the group going to the state convention will leave on Monday, May 22, it was voted to advance the last meeting of Woman's club for this season from May 22 to May 15. On this date, the music division of the Fine Arts department will be in charge of the program. A musical tea is being planned.

With business transacted, Mrs. Foster turned the program over to Mrs. J. L. Vogan, who introduced the guest speaker, Dean Luther Heisterberg, of Thiel college.

He stressed the fact that everything a child does is an adjustment of these choices, "Because of these adjustments," he said, "there are choices to be made. Because of these choices, there are conflicts. Conflict is natural in any stage of human life, and so might be considered a fundamental law of development. For this reason guidance is necessary in order that adjustment may be made in socially desirable ways."

"There are many problems to be considered in the development of personality traits. First of these is the maintenance of feelings of adequacy; second, reconciliation of contradictory beliefs; third, recognition of authority and development of self discipline."

In solving these problems, the speaker advised intelligent and objective guidance of children, at the same time leaving the child alone and unrestricted as much as possible in order that he may develop initiative and self-reliance. Encourage him on accomplishments and try to understand his own point of view.

An informal discussion followed the talk and many mothers in the audience were informed on behavior problems confronting them.

Next meeting of Woman's club is dated for April 17 when Miss Helen Hiett, lecturer and student of international affairs will speak.

BUILDING NEW U. S. ARMADA

THE WHITE HOUSE reveals that two months ago President Roosevelt authorized construction of two battleships of 45,000 tons each. Information has reached our government, it is reported, that "certain other nations" intend to build 45,000-ton ships. These ships will be the largest fighting craft ever to sail the seas.

This unique and startling situation goes back to last spring. Rumors were abroad that Japan was building, or intended to build, one or more ships of this enormous tonnage. The United States, Great Britain and France inquired of Japan as to her plans for battleship construction. The replies were indefinite. Thereupon, on April 1, the three inquirers invoked an escalator clause in their 1936 pact to permit building of battleships of more than 35,000 tons. On June 30, 1938, the three powers signed a protocol limiting the size of battleships to 45,000 tons. Japanese plans remained a secret.

Congress, about this time, passed the 1938 naval act, based upon a 20 per cent expansion of our naval establishment. Thus the United States joined the new race in naval armaments. The act authorized the president, at his discretion, to increase from 35,000 to 45,000 tons the size of the three new capital ships authorized. The cost of the program, spread over a period of from six to eight years, was estimated at $1,090,656,000 if capital ships of 35,000 tons were built, at $1,151,656,000 if capital ships of 45,000 tons were built. This, it should be remembered, is the 1938 program, and doesn't include the new defense measures requested of the present congress and now under legislative consideration.

Who the "certain other nations" are that intend to build 45,000-ton battleships, or battleships near that tonnage, is not specified. There is one guess as to which nation it is. The White House indicates that it's Japan.

SUGGESTS PLANNING FOR VACATIONS

A California physician is convinced that the American people need planned vacations. Some of us have to plan ours far ahead in order to have the money in hand for taking any vacation at all, but that isn't what the doctor means.

He says that 35,000,000 persons every year take undirected vacations, paying no attention to physical and mental needs. They jump from one climate to another for a holiday, but neglect to consider whether the vacation climate is sedative or stimulating and which type would do them the most good. He recommends development of a "modern American climate therapy" for the benefit of American health—not to mention health resorts and the medical profession.

There is much in what the doctor says, of course, but there is also a danger. It is wise to take certain health precautions during vacations—to know that the water supply is good, for example. It is also wise not to go in suddenly for violent exercise, excessive exposure to the sun, and so on. Hay fever sufferers would be foolish to go into a humid, ragweed-infested region. But aside from such forethought, wouldn't it be unwise to be too self-conscious about vacations?

THE GREATEST DANGER

The "new deal" administration's social reform program is far from perfect in its present form, probably because it moved too swiftly. But this is a comparatively superficial fault. A much more disturbing fact is that in its pursuit of social reform the administration has put so little emphasis on the necessity of hard work by the individual citizen, and so much emphasis on the theory that there exists a great fund of wealth which has only to be divided more equitably in order to make everybody happy.

A great number of Americans have been encouraged to believe that it is possible to grow richer by working less and by producing less; that it is the proper business of a government to subsidize large numbers of its people; that there is an inexhaustible supply of money which can be used endlessly for this purpose; that those who advise greater caution in the expenditure of public funds, or who urge a relaxation of restraints which needlessly handicap private enterprise, are merely "dual economic overlords" who stand in the way of all progress.

The dangers involved in such a course as this are an eventual bankruptcy of the national government and an encouragement of "class" prejudices which ought to have no place in the United States—New York Times.

HOUSECLEANING BLUES

"Blues songs" have been written about many of life's mournful experiences. The housekeepers would perhaps like more housekeeping blues, depicting their troubles as they don the dust cap and rout the dirt with fierce determination.

Also father suffers when he comes home and finds his customary easy chair out on the lawn. However, the women folks tell us that only thus can we dispose of uncounted millions of germs. So father should co-operate and not grumble. He should feel a bit guilty if he absents himself about the time the rugs have to be beaten.

The chief agencies of ugliness are rust, decay and the inventor of sheet iron.

A man isn't really old until he begins to take fool exercises to regain his youth.

Hospitality isn't dead. People wouldn't build dining rooms if they didn't expect company.

What's the use? The more you know, the more you require to make you as happy as the poor moron.

Using melted butter on toast isn't a modern idea. Old-timers always used it that way in summer.

Friendly hint to the two labor organizations: Make peace and quit hindering recovery or lose the public sympathy that is your chief asset.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

MENTAL TRAINING FOR TOT

At little or no cost parents can provide highly educational playthings for the child. What is more, the little tyke can have very valuable mental training with very little help from anyone.

Included in the notes I recorded of my own children is evidence of an ability at classification which for the most part came about without help or suggestion from anybody. You, my fellow parents, must have made similar observations of your own little child.

To illustrate, long before the age of three each child would put things together of similar size, shape or color—the red checkers on one pile, the black ones on another; the long blocks together, the short ones together. Toys or pictures of animals would be grouped in like fashion. The simple jig-saw puzzle was alluring at this very early age. (You can make them for a child by pasting pictures from an old magazine on heavy cardboard or wood and sawing it in such shapes and pieces as you like—a few pieces at first.

Pack Of Cards. For one of the children, when he was about two, we had a pack of picture cards, four or five cards with the same picture. It proved a great lot of wholesome fun for the child to take a shuffled pack of these and sort them into groups. (An ingenious mother could improvise such a set of cards. Or she could cut the card into various shapes with groups of five or six cards to each shape.)

Try this plan: Assemble a group of small articles like nails, screws, nuts, bolts, spoons, buttons, paper clips, walnuts, marbles, checker men, etc., all scrambled in one container. Then place near it a small pan, cardboard box or sanitary drinking cup—you could make a set of adjoining bins from wood. Put one of each article in a separate bin. Then see how eagerly the youngster will do likewise: You would not, of course, begin with so many articles, rather with only two or three. As you can see, this device could be varied in all sorts of ways, reaching wide degrees of difficulty.

Basic Function. A basic function in all thinking is that of classifying, of putting together the things that obviously belong together and those whose likeness are less and less apparent.

We psychologists have used the principle of classification in various ways in intelligence tests. Some day the foregoing simple type of device for classification will undoubtedly be employed in devising new intelligence tests for very young children. It certainly affords good mental exercise in addition to good enjoyment.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THAT DUKE

The Duke of Wellington was a great Englishman and a great General. Many stories are told of his quick wit, as well as of his successful fighting qualities.

Once a quartermaster came to him to complain of the General of his Division. He said to the Duke: "General Crawford, my lord, says that if the provisions for his department are not ready on time, he will hang me. What am I to do?"

The General calmly replied: "I strongly advise you to obtain them at any cost. General Crawford, I observe, keeps his word."
At the Battle of Waterloo, the colonel commanding the British artillery observed to the Duke: "I have the exact range of the spot where Bonaparte and his staff are standing. If your grace will allow me, I think I can pick some of them off."

"No," replied Wellington. "Generals-in-chief have some things else to do in a great battle besides firing at each other."

BOY'S DESIRE

"What's wrong?" I asked a boy with downcast head.

"My father has no faith in me," he said.

"He doesn't trust me; worries day and night."

Whenever I have ventured from his sight.

He gives me everything I wish to own.

Except his confidence when I'm alone.

"My father is afraid; afraid that I some dangerous hazard will be moved to try."

He walks beside me doubtfully, as though Beyond his aid I lack the sense to go.

And when I ask for danger and its test.

He shakes his head and tells me he knows best.

"My father loves me! that I understand."

But still I wish sometimes he'd loose my hand.

I want to show him that in strength I've grown.

Can suffer hurt and shoulder care alone.

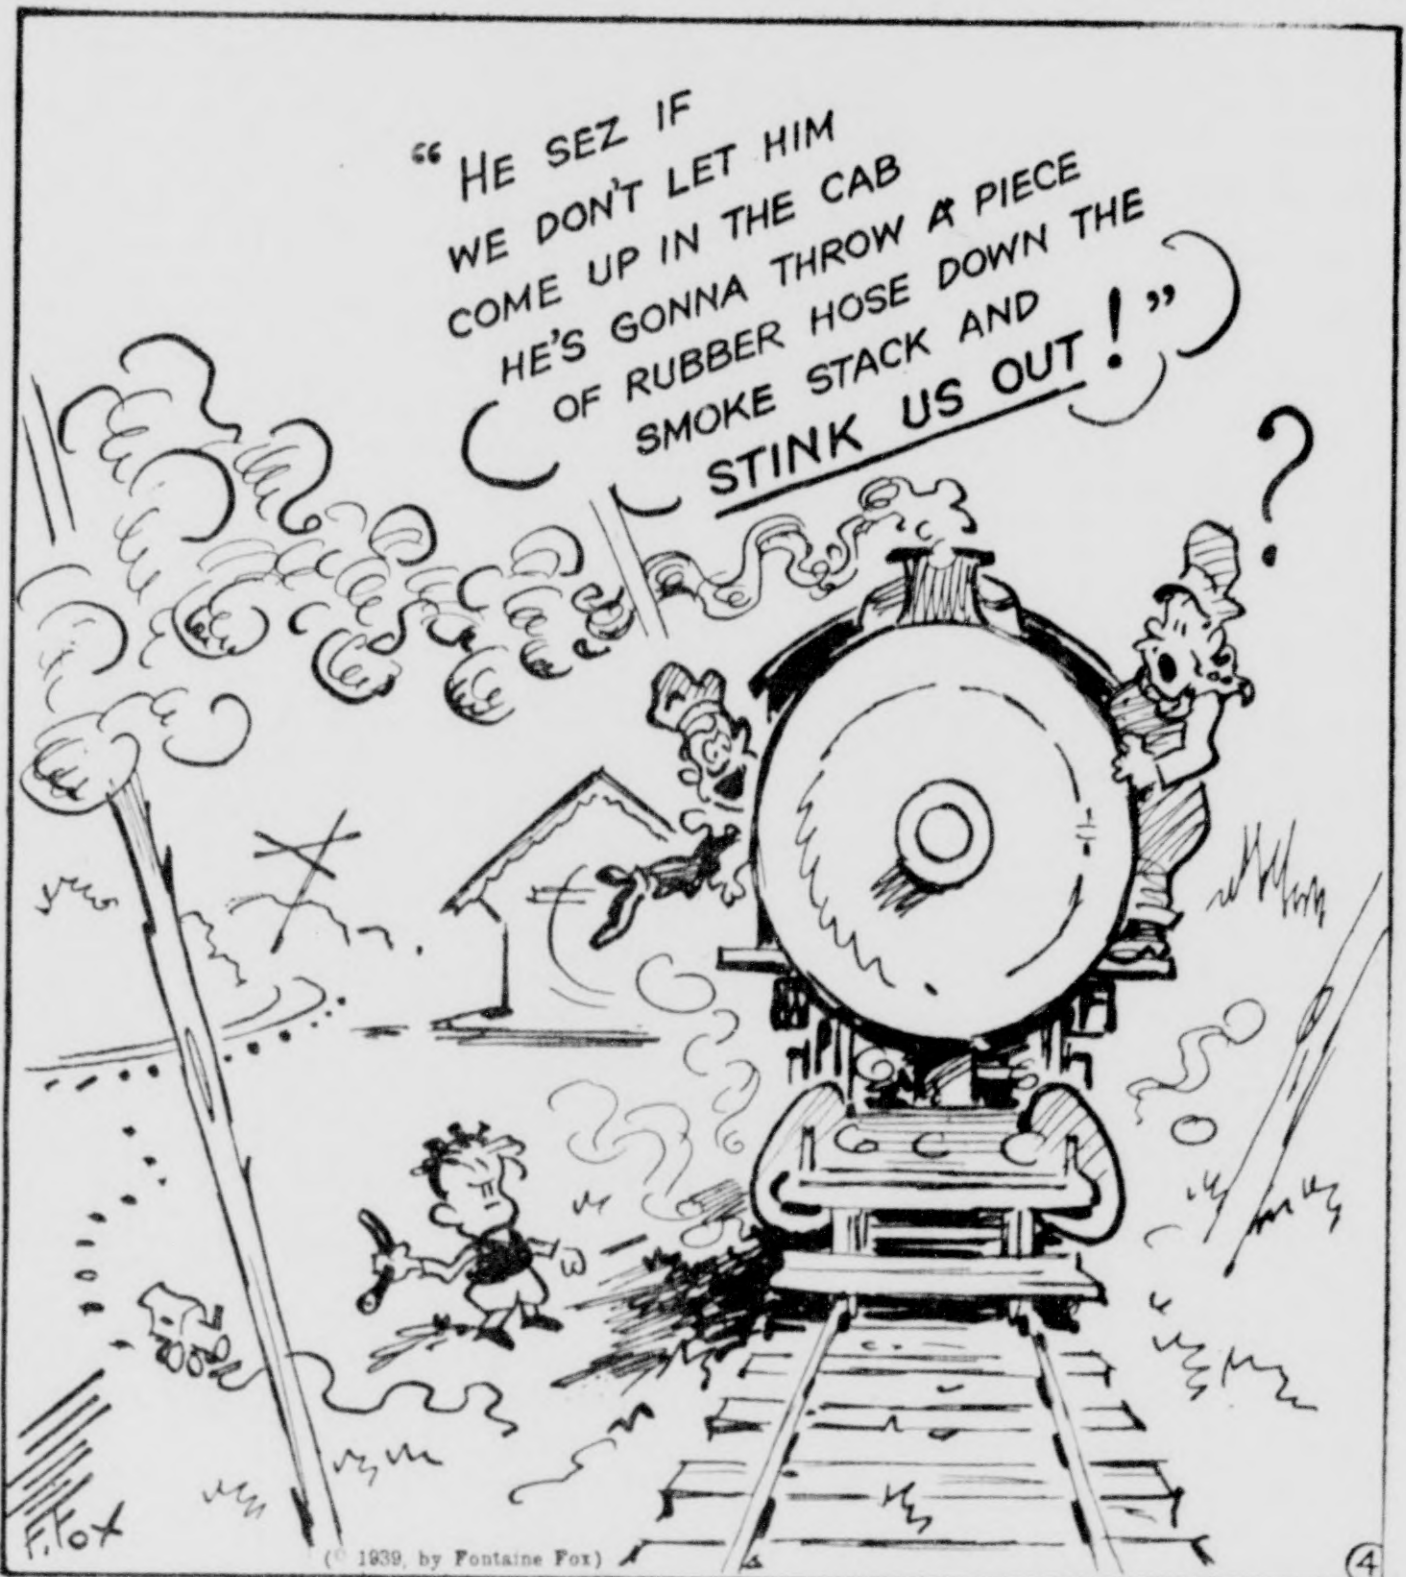

I have his love, but happier I'd be If only he'd have confidence in me."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:28. Sun rises tomorrow 5:37.

Recently a dinner was held in Los Angeles at which it was to be decided to the satisfaction of at least one of the guests that the most "oomph" we don't know what that is and have not heard who won. "Oomph!"

We have noticed in many cities signs reading "Quiet." "No Horn-Blowing." We heard the horns and noise just the same right under the signs. Signs don't mean anything. A club is the best thing to use.

There are too many people in this country who are opposed to paying any kind of a tax. A national sales tax is the only thing that will ever get this country out of the mess it is in. Every person who spends any money will have to pay a sales tax. This country is worth living in and everybody should help support it.

THE WHISTLE

O'er the hills and through the canyons Comes the whistle of a train: Folks who hear it scarcely heed it. Nor its memory retain.

But to me a train-toting Makes me a train-toting When we hailed each train a-passing. As we would another friend.

Then when even-tide came closer And I was in my feather bed, Listened to the engine's whistle Clinging up the grade ahead.

There is music in a whistle, Telling tales of long ago, Sending out its vibrant message, Setting this old heart aglow.

NOT HARMFUL

"If I gave you a penny, my boy," said the somewhat penurious man, "I'm afraid you wouldn't put it to good use."

"Oh, be a sport, mister," said the small boy. "A penny ain't enough to do much harm or good with, so go ahead and take a chance."

We are always glad to hear when we get back the words "Glad to see you back again." Sounds good even if some don't mean it.

A COUPLE O' CHUCKLES
This sounds much like one of Aesop's fables, but if you can believe an actor's press-agent (and who wouldn't?) the credit belongs to Al Jolson. According to that same press-agent, Al told this story to the late President Calvin Coolidge, having previously warned that it would make the President bust out laughing. As to whether Al was given odds on the wager, the press-agent did not say. Anyway, here's the story on which the comedian gambled his hard earned salary: A rabbit was taken sick. So he called to his neighbor, a tortoise, to please hurry to a doctor and get him some medicine. The tortoise said okay and climbed over the fence while the rabbit lay himself down to await his return. A day passed and the tortoise did not return with the medicine. A week went by. A month passed. Then two months. And the poor rabbit was getting sicker and sicker. Finally he began to lose hope and in a moment of mental depression complained aloud, "Dog-gone that tortoise. I don't believe he'll ever come back." At that the tortoise stuck his head up from behind the fence. "Just for that, Mr. Rabbit," he snapped, "I won't go at all."

And if we are to believe Mr. Jolson, the president didn't crack a smile.

That old stuff about sterilizing the bad boys and girls is being talked about in Harrisburg again and a law is again talked of to prevent their getting married. For some reason or other no law ever gets passed. It may be because some of the boys that pass the laws have some fears for themselves.

A local man writes in about a certain farmer friend of his in North Dakota, who exemplifies interstate commerce or something.

This farmer rises to the alarm of a Connecticut clock, buttons Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls, puts on boots made in Ohio, washes his face in a Pittsburgh basin, with Cincinnati soap, dries on towel made in New Hampshire of Alabama cotton. He draws his Syracuse chair to a Grand Rapids table, eats biscuits of Minneapolis flour, his Kansas City bacon and his Battle Creek cereal, on his Trenton dishes.

After a morning's work with his Cleveland-made tractor, he comes back to Chicago meat, Hoboken tea, Maine potatoes, all cooked on a St. Louis stove. For dessert he has fruit packed in California and seasoned with Rhode Island spices.

After dinner he puts on his felt hat made in Philadelphia, harnesses his Massachusetts mule, fed on Iowa corn, to an Indiana plow. At night, after listening to his son accompany the Camden phonograph on an Elk-horn saxophone, he crawls under an Oregon blanket and is kept awake by a South Dakota dog—the only home product on the place.

What's What At A Glance

England To Protect Gibraltar
Will Fight To Keep Stronghold
Spain May Set Off Spark Of War

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 4.—No sooner had Gen. Franco's forces occupied Madrid than British Gibraltar took alarm. The Franco-ites, it seems immediately began a throwing up of defenses along Gibraltar's edge in a very peculiar way. That is, are they intended for defensive purposes alone? Or do they contemplate an attempted grab of this historic stronghold of John Bull?

Here's a fresh headache for the London government in particular, but in general for whatever else remains of the peace-loving world. If it forecasts a move by the new Spanish government to gain possession of the famous rock at the western end of the Mediterranean, it means trouble compared with what the just-ending war on the Iberian peninsula will seem like small potatoes. Not that Franco signifies. But if he really plans the capture of that little corner of Spain, it necessarily follows that he has Italy back of him, and Germany back of Italy. It starts the threatened all-around European war, in short.

That Mussolini planned the early acquisition of Gibraltar wasn't anticipated. He wants it, of course, to give him complete control of the inland sea. Nevertheless, it wasn't imagined that he'd act so soon. Supposing that that's his scheme, it's much as if some potentially hostile power were to begin operations toward possession of the Panama Canal. Britain couldn't stand it for a minute—nor ever the threat.

Bowers in Spotlight
Claude Bowers, Yankee ambassador to pre-war Spain, is back in Washington now. Naturally the state department has questioned him. But Claude doesn't know. He was sent to Madrid when things were peaceful. He thought he had a nice assignment. Instead he's spent most of his time during the last two years on the French side of the Franco-Spanish frontier. Too many bombs were dropping around the U. S. embassy in Madrid to make it a desirable place to stay. And anyway, nobody surmised that Gibraltar would be involved in the mess.

Nor has it been involved thus far. Now, though, it's scared. All that Claude doesn't know is that the situation looks bilious. Civil war in Spain is one thing. A fight for Gibraltar between the British on one side, and Franco-ites Spain, supported by Italy, and Germany on the other side, is something else again.

Maybe Claude Bowers couldn't have been expected to visualize all that. He can't be blamed. Nobody foresaw the Gibraltar angle.

Benito Mussolini's strategy is easy enough to understand. The Mediterranean has two ends. The eastern end is at the Suez Canal. He already has said that he wants a voice in control of that end. What he means is that he wants sole control. Gibraltar controls the western end. With these two controls Italy controls the Mediterranean as effectively as the United States controls the Great Lakes, from Duluth to the Thousand Islands.

Italy Hasn't Got 'Em
But Italy hasn't got 'em. Possibly it has something of a mortgage on Suez, but not on Gibraltar. It's inconceivable that it won't have to fight for that. Djibouti and vicinity are discussable with France, but not Gibraltar, with the British. That would be as reasonable as a totalitarian discussion between Mr. Bull and his neighbors over their respective claims to suzerainty over the Fleet Street, London.

The Mediterranean is a very sensitive subject with Britain's best. It can get to India that way only except around the Cape of Good Hope. It isn't going to give anybody much authority over Suez; none at all over Gibraltar. Still, if corked up at Suez, it can get in through the Gibraltar back door and raise the roof. But bottle it up at both ends? Oh my!

THE facts about the cotton situation are pretty appalling. For example, cotton exports are lower today than in fifty years. As security for the loans it has made, the Government now holds more than 11,000,000 bales, which is another way of saying the Government is stuck with that much cotton. This represents more than $600,000,000 of Government money and it is costing more than $45,000,000 annually to carry this cotton. World cotton consumption in the last crop year is given by the New York Times as 652,000 bales higher than the prosperous year of 1929, when cotton was 16 cents.

HOWEVER, world consumption of American cotton last year was 4,296,000 bales less than in 1929. This is equivalent to saying that 5,000,000 more bales of cotton raised outside of America were consumed by the world last year than in 1929. It is clear then that our cotton policy, pursued at great cost, has stimulated cotton production in foreign countries while restricting it here. It has resulted in the loss of our export trade and no benefit to the domestic producer. On the contrary, the Government loan price on its stored cotton is a little more than eight cents, which is considerably higher than the price would be if there were a free market. In other words, the Government artificially is pegging the price of cotton to keep it from sinking to the lowest level in ten years.

Call For Bids For Warships

Bids Called For By U. S. Navy Even Before Funds Are Appropriated

UNPRECEDENTED MOVE FOR DEFENSE

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 4.—In an unprecedented move to speed up national defense plans, the navy department Monday called for bids on construction of new warships before funds were appropriated by congress.

The move calls for bids on submarines and destroyers to be built under the 1940 construction program, the bids to be submitted by May 24.

The navy department explained that the action had been impelled by the necessity of speeding up the navy's program of warship construction in view of disturbed world conditions.

The navy asked for bids from private yards for four submarines and four destroyers. They will be matched by a similar number of craft to be built in navy yards. The program represents an increase by two submarines over last year's construction of light craft.

Two new types of warcraft, one a new super-speed destroyer and the other a new type of small submarine, will be built.

The new high-speed destroyers, of 1,630 tons, will be built to match similar type of craft which the Italian navy has built for use in the Mediterranean. The new submarine will be of 800 tons, which is an entirely new class between the "R" boat and the "S" boat. It will be for operation in coastal waters, particularly in the outlying possessions. It is highly maneuverable and of shorter range than the larger types.

Three others of the 1,465-ton class of submarines will be built under the new bids.

Former Local Man Is Given Belated Award For Valor

Howard L. Houston, of Butler, Is Cited For Gallant Action During World War

As a reward for gallantry in action, and devotion to duty, Howard L. Houston of Butler, a former resident here, was decorated with the French Fourragere in the colors of the French Croix De Guerre (green and red) at a meeting of the Frederick O. Blankenship post, American Legion, last week. He was presented with the French medal by Department Commander Frank E. Gwynn of Allentown on the occasion of his visit to the Butler post.

Houston is a former resident of Oak street, this city, and was employed by the P. & L. E. railroad. He enlisted in Battery B, 5th field artillery, on June 2, 1917, while residing here, and moved to Butler some time after returning home from the war.

"Near Cantigny, France," the citation reads, "on May 28, 1918, displayed exceptional bravery and devotion to duty with a total disregard to personal safety, making repeated journeys through shell-swept areas to repair lines of communication."

Montgomery Just About Puts Stop To Senate Hearing

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Robert Montgomery, the motion picture star, turned a senate hearing into a good-humored and colorful mob scene Monday when he appeared to testify against the Neely bill prohibiting block-booking of motion picture productions.

Pretty stenographers flocked into the hall outside the committee room, and jammed the room itself, and some of the bolder young women pressed forward to obtain the actor's autograph.

Dressed in a single breasted grey suit, Montgomery twisted his horn-rimmed, spectacles nervously and tried a smile against the surging crowd.

Montgomery appeared on behalf of the screen actors guild. He told a senate interstate commerce subcommittee that the Neely bill would ruin the picture industry.

"The guild board and its attorneys have carefully studied this bill," Montgomery said. "And have come to the very definite conclusion that if it should become a law of this country it would cut in half the production schedules of the motion picture industry."

omy of the country as a whole, has prodded the President into a reversal of the old policy and the adoption of a new. In whose fertile brain the latter originated is not revealed but it hardly can be said to have been favorably received. Even the New Dealers seem depressed. For example, Mr. Raymond Chandler, ardent admirer of Mr. Roosevelt, asserts that in this policy the Administration is driven to retreat, that it cuts a hole in the Hull policy, which embraces not only reciprocal trade agreements but has as its objects "the removal of trade barriers, subsidies, quotas, export bounties and other interferences with the free flow of goods among nations". If this is the feeling of the New Dealers, it at least seems open to doubt that Congress, as urged by Senator Barkley, will accept the President's plan.

Illness continues to take its toll in the court house. At the present time Deputy County Controller Andrew Dodds, and clerk to the commissioners' chief clerk, Miss Sara Weinschenk are off duty.

Work started Monday on remodeling the old Boyles home adjoining the court house. Partitions are being ripped out, wall paper is being taken off and for the next couple of weeks most of the work will be tearing out.

The house is unusually large inside, has three floors with plenty of rooms and when completed will provide much needed space for the court house.

Part of the first coat of white has been put on the front wall of the court house and in a few days the old building will look like a ghost.

Workers working on the roof of the court house made considerable racket on Monday morning and in order for the jury to hear what was going on Judge Braham ordered the work to cease while court was in session.

Highway Engineers Drawing Plans For Extension Of Route To Philadelphia

WOULD BE MOST MODERN HIGHWAY

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 4.—Engineers of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission were revealed today to be engaged in drawing plans for a 112-mile extension of the all-weather highway to connect Harrisburg with Philadelphia.

Extension to Philadelphia of the $60,000,000 Pittsburgh to Harrisburg super-highway now under construction would link the nation's greatest steel center with the tidewater.

Its value as a military road over which indispensable war materials could be transported in time of national emergency was understood to be arousing considerable interest in federal circles.

The drawing of plans was believed to be preliminary to an actual proposal for construction of the new link whose completion would give the state one of the most modern and up-to-date transportation links in the nation.

Department Of Agriculture

Checks Up On Dyes

Sold In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 4.—Pennsylvania department of agriculture agents are making their annual "check-up" on Easter egg dyes. Samples purchased from retail stores in all parts of the state are being analyzed in the departmental laboratory.

In 1938 eleven manufacturers had dyes on sale and 99 samples of colors were analyzed. There was a marked improvement from previous years as a result of this annual inspection, department officials said.

Retail merchants throughout the state have been urged to cooperate with the department in protecting Pennsylvania's children and public in general by purchasing dyes from reliable dealers only, and obtaining a guarantee that the colors are certified to be harmless by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Out-of-state manufacturers who ship into Pennsylvania have been warned that their dyes must be made from colors meeting the requirements of the federal department of agriculture.

Boy Questioned About Robberies On North Hill

Admits Sneak Thievery In Several Homes Police Report

City detectives today were questioning a thirteen year old boy to ascertain how many places he had robbed during the last seven weeks the lad already having confessed to entering homes they report.

The boy was apprehended by Mrs. Vance Veach in the cellar-way of the Veach residence, 1707 Delaware avenue, at 8:30 a. m. today and when taken to police headquarters, was quizzed.

He confessed, Detectives Chief Showalter and Detectives Moore and J. Young report, to having taken various articles and cash. He said he used some of the cash with which to play bingo.

The places detectives say he confessed entering were: Veach residence, Delaware avenue; McBride residence, Delaware avenue; Nolan residence, Sheridan avenue.

First residence, Sumner avenue. The boy reportedly confessed further to having entered homes at Highland and Sumner avenues; Delaware and Sumner avenues and another home, the address which officers have not yet obtained from the youth.

According to Detectives Chief Showalter, the youth would knock on the door and if a person answered the signal, would inquire if chores were to be done, if no answer came he would enter or attempt to enter the home.

The lad this morning allegedly followed this practice at the Veach residence. When informed a man regularly was employed to remove ashes, he apparently left.

Later, he was found in the cellar-way, detectives report. Mrs. Veach called police and held the lad until they arrived. Taken to the detective bureau, the boy reportedly confessed.

There has been more than a dozen burglaries reported recently from the North Hill section and today detectives were endeavoring to ascertain how many homes the boy had entered.

Police: Once a man, a town and a nation began to go down hill, and all three said: "This is the natural result of our own laziness and dumbness."

News Man Makes Trip Through "Scorched Earth" Area By Train In China

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
NANKING, April 4.—Through areas devastated by the "scorched earth" policy of the retreating Chinese, I have just completed the first overland journey from Peiping to Nanking made by a foreigner since the Sino-Japanese war broke out 20 months ago.

The trip was made with the initial through train, operated by the Japanese. Head of it ran a pilot train to clear the way.

Raged Chinese civilians, armed with rifles and sometimes even primitive spears, assisted Japanese army patrols to foil anticipated attempts by Chinese guerrilla fighters to wreck the first train.

On the way I discovered a desolate belt of "scorched earth" stretching for 100 miles south of Peiping, in central Anhwei province. There was not a single farmhouse left unburned, in keeping with the Chinese policy of leaving nothing of value for the invaders.

All the remaining furnishings and woodwork, all the farm implements, had been removed, and virtually every inhabitant had fled, taking their livestock with them. In contrast to the devastation were the wild flowers blooming brilliantly into the now uncultivated fields.

Shanghai, April 4.—Three Chinese armies today were reported making progress in a multiple counter-offensive against Japanese troops west of Hankow. Sanchowang and Kuantien have been recaptured, according to Chinese advances, and the armies have gained a strong foothold on the east side of the Han river.

A major set-back for China was suffered near Nanking, however, then the army of Gen. Li Yen-Po, composed of about 6000 men, surrendered to the Japanese.

On the Wuning front, the Japanese said, 7500 Chinese have been killed in the last ten days of fighting.

Occasionally a newly mined diamond explodes. This is caused by the internal strain of the diamond's construction.

WHO IS YOUR SKINNY FRIEND ETHEL?

A fellow shouldn't expect the girls to mob him for his autograph if he looks all in, has grave-like hollows in his cheeks and neck and his clothes hang on him like a scarecrow. Constipation can do a lot toward helping one toward this condition, Mr. Nick De Luca, 532-12th St., New Kensington, Pa., says.

"Constipation had me in a failing condition and resulted in a failing appetite that was making me look like a scarecrow. Since taking World's Tonic my constipation was amazingly relieved and both appetite and weight are now coming back." Some people eat big meals and even drink lots of milk but just cannot seem to gain weight. Often an alkaline balance is needed for proper food assimilation. World's Tonic contains valuable alkalines for neutralizing acids and is not an old fashioned nasty tasting medicine. DANGERS OF SCARLET FEVER
NOT TO BE HELD TOO LIGHTLY

Scarlet fever derives its name from the rash which nearly always accompanies and helps to identify it. Coming out about the second day after the child has taken ill, it appears as a fine, red bluish, most marked on the patient's trunk.

If you want to assure yourself that what you see is scarlet fever, then just pass your hand lightly over the skin. If it is the real thing, the rash will feel soft and velvety, slightly raised over the surrounding skin. Of course, after doing this, the doctor, or anyone else, will carefully sterilize his hands.

In mild cases, this rash may last only a few hours. In severe cases, it won't disappear for days. In any case, when it does, the skin over which the rash appeared will peel off.

The result of this loss of superficial skin is that there is left a fine, white material over the body surface. On parts of the body where the skin is thin, this resembles nothing quite so much as fine lace. On the soles of the feet and the palms of the hand, where the skin is thick, it comes off in thick layers. When the rash has gone you will find, too, a peculiar black stain in the folds of the elbow and in the armpits.

I have seen children—and adults too—who were quite sick with scarlet fever. The temperature often soared up, and some children are so ill they become delirious, and may have convulsions.

Sometimes the neck shows a lot of swelling. I have known some patients where this swelling was so severe that it actually interfered with their breathing.

In our discussion we are describing a characteristic case of scarlet fever, one that shows all the marked symptoms, including the tell-tale rash. But in many mild cases these symptoms aren't all present, or are so indistinct that they aren't noticed. An experienced doctor can nearly always tell, even if symptoms are not marked—that is, if he gets a chance. But too often in such mild cases the doctor isn't called in, and in a few days the patient is up and around, mixing with other children, perhaps in school—a menace to everybody he comes near.

I have known many people, I am sorry to say, who definitely knew they had scarlet fever, but hid it from the doctor because they didn't want to be quarantined. If they would only realize what a short-sighted policy this is . . . what serious consequences may result from what they are doing . . . I know they would report every rash.

Quarantine isn't just as arbitrary thing, for we know that a patient carries the infection for about four weeks after he has contracted it, and may give it to others.

Remember, if you hide the fact that you have scarlet fever, and mingle with others while you still may spread the disease, you may be bringing death to someone.

Steel Industry
Hurt By Taxes

Taxes Loom More Formidable
Than Ever As Cost Factor
In Steel Industry

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 4—The tax burden on industry was emphasized Monday at the 38th annual meeting of U. S. Steel Corp. in Hoboken.

While expressing a cautiously hopeful view on the business outlook, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman, in his address to the stockholders declared that taxes today loom "more formidable than ever" as a cost factor.

They impose a heavy charge against income from which the corporation seeks no relief, he added, and continued:

"Our total tax bill for 1938 amounted to $48,842,131, the equivalent of $5.61 on the common. Taxes in 1938, other than federal income taxes, based on earnings, were $45,912,131 compared with $37,739,322 in 1929 and $35,266,010 in 1936.

"This is an increase of 22 per cent over 1929 and 30 per cent over 1936.

News Oddities

LEGS, CROWD, POLICE, ARREST!
How curious these New Yorkers be. An advertising stunt to determine "the most beautiful legs in New York city" brought a crowd. The crowd brought police and when a young miss who had forgotten her bathing suit, stepped forth in a blue drape the crowd surged forward, a policeman leaped into the store window and the store manager was arrested for disorderly conduct.

ROBBER IS TOO BOLD
A robber in Maumee, O., apparently has small regard for the feelings of police and firemen. He was so ungracious he robbed Robert Shepherd, attendant of a gasoline station which serves as the village police and fire headquarters. The two deputies were on duty elsewhere. The robber got $78.00.

JAIL WON'T HOLD HIM
Vermont's state tax commission has refused the offer of J. S. Clark, Brattleboro photographer, to "spend a few years in jail to justify my convictions" on a refusal to pay a state income tax of $30 as a protest against military preparedness. The state tax commissioner in reply, said an attachment of property, not jail, would be the state's answer. The photographer, a former minister, claims the state helped the national "war machine" indirectly, in a letter to the income tax field agent.

Local Man Tells Of Meeting
Many Former Localities On Pacific Coast

Ira L. Cox, who left here in January for a stay in California, tells of his experiences since arriving there, and of meeting many former local residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox were met at San Diego by their relatives, Mrs. Clara Francis and Mr. and Mrs. William Motheral. They went to housekeeping at 3231 1/2 Adams avenue.

Although they pick roses and sweet peas in their garden, they can look up into the mountains only 50 miles away and see the snow. They have made frequent visits to Azusa, Caliente, Rosari Beach, and Tia Juana, Mexico.

Among those visited were P. J. Flansburg, formerly of Franklin avenue, who lives in Coronado, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Dannie McCormick, of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rudisill, formerly of Robinson street, who live in San Diego; W. T. Carson, now eighty years of age; who lives in National City; John Miller, formerly of Lutton street, who is a butcher in Pa. Masa. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of National City, the latter of whom will be remembered as Miss Josephine McClintock, of Wampum; Earl Reed Newton, who came to San Diego in 1905, and is now city fire marshal. He states that he also met Judge Edwin Hazen, who was born near Ellwood City, and who is practicing law in San Diego. He was a former judge in Chicago, but went to California from there in 1935.

Brings In Large Verdict In Apex Hosiery Co. Suit In Philadelphia

TRIPLE DAMAGES MADE MANDATORY

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—Counsel for the union today mapped a vigorous appeal from the triple damage verdict of $711,932.55 assessed on branch 1, American Federation of Hosiery Workers, and its president, William Leader, as a result of the 48-day sit-down strike in the Apex Hosiery company's Philadelphia plant in 1937.

The first step, to be taken within 10 days, is to ask U. S. District Court Judge William H. Kirkpatrick for a "judgment notwithstanding the verdict," explained M. Herbert Syme, attorney for the union. This amounts to requesting the court to set aside the jury's decision.

To Appeal Case
If that is denied, the case will be appealed to the U. S. circuit court and later, if necessary, to the supreme court.

The triple damage verdict, believed to be the first in which a union has been held liable for damages done during a sit-in strike, was returned by a federal jury of eight women and four men after six hours of deliberation.

The jurors set the total damages at $237,310.85, which included loss of profits, damage to machinery and stock and overhead expenses resulting from the strike. Provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act, under which the suit was brought, made the award by triple damages mandatory on the court.

Thirty Two Horses Housed At Armory

New Quarters Prove Most Adaptable For Local Cavalry Mounts

At the Cunningham Armory, of the Pennsylvania National Guard in Cascade Park, that houses Troop K, eight horses have been added to the stables this winter making thirty two horses at the armory.

Since moving into the new armory from the old location, about eight months ago, only one horse has been ill, and that only for a short time. All are now in fine condition.

One of the troopers, affectionately patting one of the horses, said: "this is the best horse of them all," asked why he said that, the answer was, "he is mine."

Some of the horses names were "outstanding," such as Popeye, Goody, Droopy, Fire, Satan, Tarzan, Goat, Squirrel, etc.

One of the horses does all his sleeping "standing up."

A large corral adjoins the stable, for exercises of the mounts.

In the capacious riding hall, the cavalry have their drill practice once a week.

Court Paves Way For New Decision

Constitutionality Of Federal Income Taxation Of Judges' Salaries To Be Reviewed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 4.—The U. S. Supreme Court, holding only a brief decision period, on Monday failed to rule in major cases pending before the tribunal.

The court, however, paved the way for another important tax ruling when it decided to review the question of constitutionality of federal income taxation of salaries of federal judges.

Important cases in which rulings failed to materialize, included the Strecker deportation case, and cases involving constitutionality of the cotton marketing provisions of the AAA of 1938 and the "original cost" theory of valuing utilities.

The court recessed until April 17. At that time the court is expected to rule in the Strecker case—a case which vitally affects future of deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, C.I.O. leader on the west coast.

Constitutionality of the federal income tax law, as applied to federal judges, will be decided in a case in which Circuit Judge Joseph W. Woodruff, of the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, protested against action of the collector of internal revenue in assessing income tax against his $12,500 annual salary.

The government, which joined Judge Woodruff in seeking a final ruling on the question, urged the court to expedite the appeal.

Randolph Post Enjoys Talk On Child Welfare

Practical And Educational Talk Is Given By Dr. H. E. Helling On Monday

ELLWOOD CITY, April 4.—In a most instructive and educational talk on "Child Welfare", Dr. H. E. Helling, prominent local physician, addressing members of the J. Wilbur Randolph post of the American Legion and guests at their first meeting of April, on Monday night in the Sixth street Legion hall, stressed the importance of educating parents to provide the proper environment and health opportunities for their children.

The meeting was held in observance of National Child Welfare Week, and in the first part of his address the speaker dealt with social diseases. In recent years pneumonia has been the most fatal disease, he said, and added that 45 per cent of the people in the Pittsburgh district stricken with the disease died. Emphasizing the danger of the disease following whooping cough, he advised the inoculation of all children against whooping cough as well as smallpox, typhoid and scarlet fever.

Much has been accomplished by the Randolph post and other organizations of the town in securing spectacles for school children with defective eyesight, and commending the organization for this worthy objective, Dr. Helling said children who have been backward in their studies are many times put on an equal footing with normal students when the trouble is discovered and remedied.

The average span of life of an average man is 45 years, and concluding his practical talk deploring the high death rate caused by heart disease, the speaker urged the members to avoid strenuous exercise and to adjust themselves to a steady pace of living.

Members of the Edith Cavell post of New Brighton were special guests and their commander, Howard Rowley, gave a fine talk in which he urged every ex-serviceman to join a Legion post of some kind. Sidney Eate, adjutant, and Rev. J. R. Routledge, chaplain, of the visiting post, also spoke.

Robert Taylor, Legion baseball chairman, said that activities for this year's season will begin in the middle of the month. With the organization of teams in New Castle, Farrell, Sharon and the Beaver valley, Ellwood City will have plenty of opposition this year. Some five or six local teams are expected to be sponsored in the league.

During the business session plans were made for a joint meeting with the Sons of Legion on Monday evening, April 17. All Legion members are asked to bring their sons, whether or not they belong to the Junior post.

Council Names Clean-Up Week

Week Of April 24 Will Be Tin Can Removal Period

MAY RESULT IN MORE EMPLOYMENT

Councilmanic colleagues in the municipal hall session on Monday agreed with Mayor Charles E. McGrath there should be a clean-up week here and when the week to clean-up arrives it not only will enhance the appearance of the city but also help employment. The clean-up week will start April 24.

He told his fellow law-makers in round meeting that a state body is sponsoring a Give-A-Job week. The mayor declared that, were a week set aside to clean up properties here, many men may find jobs. Further, he said it would be possible for the city to employ some trucks and give half of the rental to the owner and have the other half of the cost applied to delinquent taxes.

The idea struck Director of Public Safety J. M. Rice favorably. He is in charge of health conditions here. Rice agreed to take charge of the clean-up.

Mayor McGrath suggested to Rice that he force the cleaning of debris from vacant lots.

It was charged that tin cans are being dumped on the George Washington junior high school property.

Rice said that a schedule to show when trucks will haul away tin cans from properties will be published.

Rinascenza Lodge Plans Initiation

The Rinascenza Lodge No. 19, Order Italian Sons and Daughters of America, had the monthly meeting Sunday afternoon at the King Humbert hall, Division street.

Plans were introduced to join the mass initiation to be held in Pittsburgh on May 7.

During the course of the meeting state deputy of the order, Damiano R. Marsilio, was introduced by the local president, Odone Di Vito. Speaking of the order he revealed that over 4,000 new members from Pennsylvania and Ohio cities will be initiated on that day at the Grotto hall in N. S. Pittsburgh.

Members of the Rinascenza Lodge will start to work to gather at least 50 new members to join this mass initiation.

Tonight a special meeting will be held for the officers only to further these plans. Meeting will start at 7:30.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

"The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on." Could Shakespeare have meant the ringworm?

It will turn, too—turn up on your toes.

Ringworm is caused by a type of fungus growth.

It favors attachment to the skin around toes and toe nails.

The fungus lives in silk stockings and leather shoes.

Treatment may rid your feet of ringworm.

But you'll get it again if stocking or shoes were infected.

That's why ringworm clings so stubbornly to the feet.

Stockings or shoes, formerly worn, were not disinfected.

Ringworm lurks around public baths and swimming pools.

Watch your step this summer.

There was a deadly poison prepared in Italy during the seventeenth century, called "wives' poison," and it was used chiefly by married women who had grown tired of their husbands.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 4. — The break between the Senate Democrats and Gov. Arthur H. James over the later's alleged refusal to admit Senator C. Hale Sipe, Butler-Armstrong district Democrat, to a conference with farmers from Sipe's own district, reminds observers of a similar incident that occurred four years ago.

At that time the Republicans, who dominated the Senate, could not see eye to eye with the Democratic administration and Governor Earle told them to draw up their own program if they objected to his. . . but after several unsuccessful conferences with G. O. P. delegations, the negotiations broke off.

A delegation of younger Republican senators, including Senator Harry Shapiro, then a Republican and now the Democratic floor leader, Frank Harris of Pittsburgh and the late John Homsher of Lancaster, disagreeing with their colleagues, formed a new committee to confer with the governor.

But when they presented themselves at the governor's office he took one look at them and refused to confer with them. . . explaining his position later, he said: "I took one look at them and thought they were the same delegation."

Learning his mistake, however, he recalled the delegation and apologized, saying: "I don't care what you think of me as a politician, but I do care what you think of me as a gentleman." . . . After several conferences a compromise on the administration's tax program was agreed upon.

The legislature is about to repeal a measure passed during the former Republican administration of Gifford Pinchot. . . Passed in 1933, the act permitted Major General Edward C. Shannon to continue for five years as major general in charge of the national guard until he reached the age of 69. . . In June this year he reaches the age of 69 and retires. . . Passage of the act permitted Pinchot to retain Shannon for five more years as major general, thus saving Pinchot the unpleasant task of passing over

Brigadier General Edward Martin, next in line to succeed Shannon in 1934. . . Martin at that time was chairman of the Republican state committee and engaged in intra-party warfare with Pinchot.

The appearance of Pennsylvania's two "ambassadors", Senators Joseph P. Guffey, Democrat, and James J. Davis, Republican, before the legislature to address it on the "State of the Nation" is believed to be the first time in the history of the Commonwealth that such an event has occurred. . . Thirty-three years ago Pennsylvania's two senators, Boies Penrose and Philander C. Knox, accompanied President Theodore Roosevelt to Harrisburg for the dedication of the new capitol. . . Two years ago Senator Hamilton Lewis, D. Illinois, addressed a joint session at the invitation of the legislature. . . At a press conference which followed he announced his support of Gov. George H. Earle for President.

Other notable figures who have spoken in the capitol include William Howard Taft, both during his term and afterwards; and Calvin Coolidge, who visited the Senate and sat through a session. . . Senators George Wharton Pepper and David A. Reed both informally addressed legislative sessions at various times during their terms.

King Albert of the Belgians visited the capitol but declined to address the legislature. . . Governor Brumbaugh introduced the Argentine ambassador to a joint legislative session in Spanish. . . He was a former superintendent of schools in Porto Rico. . . Among those who visited the old capitol, which burned in 1897, were Lafayette, William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Abraham Lincoln and King Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

There is one interesting epitome of progress which our World's Fair will only incidentally portray, but which, properly dramatized, would make a fascinating exhibit. That would be the sweeping revolution in cuisine, customs, arts and amenities of living and social behavior achieved in the United States in the 45 years between the Chicago World's Fair of 1893 and our great exposition.

With the surge of steel, lumber and barbed-wire millionaires into the New York in the nineties, the great hotels imported continental chefs and managers and offered an impressive new rubric of living customs, and there are plenty of people now living who have seen, telescoped into a few decades, life adaptations which have taken centuries in the old world.

Salad, in the days of "Samantha" at the World's Fair, to the average American was lettuce leaves drenched with vinegar and sugar.

The grave of many a husky citizen was dug with a frying pan. William Jennings Bryan was a fundamentalist in bucolic mid-western cooking, even after he became world-famous, demanding his fried steak and potatoes and pie "a-la-mode" at the Waldorf-Astoria, just as he clung to his black alpaca coat and his string tie. He came to an untimely end, at Dayton, Tenn., during the incredible "monkey" trial, just after such a repast.

My friend, Albert Stevens Crockett, hickorian of the hotel business in New York, and now with the Hotel Biltmore, tossed me a few keen observations the other day about this transition from the cross-roads to the big town, and the conditioning of an entire nation to world sophistication in diet and in social amenities.

"I remember," said Mr. Crockett, "the jokes in the funny papers about Uncle Josh or Cousin Ezra laboring to order a dinner in a smart, big-town restaurant. Their struggles with French items of the menu provided a career for many a jokesmith, as they tried to get a half-Nelson on such words as filet, filet mignon, pupils, the wife was almost always receptive, and she helped spread a new conception of seemly behavior in the hinterland.

"A bath once a week, and in a tin bathtub was about par for the course in those days, even among some of the gilded families. Some big houses boasted a better tub and a tin one in the basement. It was next to impossible to find a bathtub in a house outside the city. Most people used the washbowl, or what was called a foot-tub, for a whole bath.

"Before the years of change, both hotels and private hostesses went in for quantity and variety rather than quality of food. Plenty of everything was the ticket. Hardly anybody ever heard of broiled chicken. If not roasted, it was always fried, usually after being rolled in a batter, often mixed with bread crumbs or cracker crumbs. The latter helped to make it more 'elegant.' Tomatoes were always peeled and served with a dressing of vinegar, pepper and salt. Hash posed under such names as 'croquettes.' Having learned what a cocotte was, lots of folks used to wonder when they first saw on a menu card, 'Eggs en cocotte.' The artichoke was virtually unknown in this country before 1893. Mrs. Potter Palmer, Chicago's No. 1 hostess, help to gather at the fair representations from some of the great art collections of the world.

"The effect of this fair on the taste and daily living habits of millions of Americans was incalculable—as was that of the later expositions of St. Louis and San Francisco. The New York Fair finds us a big-time citizenry, knowing the score anywhere in the world, but of course, it will be vastly stimulating and enlightening in all the arts and artifices of civilized living."

Rubin To Fight Portuguese Boy

Manny Amado To Test Rubin; Billy Reale Tackles Pipher

CHAMBERS AND SWATVIK CLASH

MONDAY'S CALENDAR
Baby Retardo, Ellwood City, vs. Mickey O'Day, Youngstown; 112 pounds.

Buck Chambers, West Pittsburg, vs. Chuck Swatvik, New Castle; 165 pounds.

Johnny Kovach, Youngstown, vs. Larry Degan, Butler; 160 pounds.

Hal Brooks, New Castle, vs. Harold Patterson, Youngstown; 150 pounds.

Chuck Arnett, West Pittsburg, vs. Mickey McCoy, Youngstown; 135 pounds.

Billy Reale, Princeton, vs. Tommy Pipher, Youngstown; 160 pounds.

Frankie Moran, New Castle, vs. Frankie Stovich, Youngstown; 126 pounds.

Mickey Rubin, New Castle, vs. Manny Amado, Youngstown; 175 pounds.

Although Easter comes soon, pugilistic gentry here will not receive dyes until one day later, Monday night to be precise, because this will be when 16 fighters pair off in eight battles in The Arena. Judging from scraps now arranged, several of the glove warriors will leave the ring sporting black and blue marks.

For instance, the hard-hitting, game Mickey Rubin intends to tackle a Portuguese light-heavyweight named Manny Amado, who is residing in Youngstown. Last week Rubin fought Willie Davis of Youngstown, had him down when the bell in the third saved Davis, and flopped him again in the fourth. Rubin was given the five, two-minute round decision.

Because Frankie Moran flattened Mike Conella, his training mate, Frankie Stovich, Youngstown, who is trained by Billy Wallace, who fought Frankie Rio here in a professional ring, has taken up the cudgel in the shape of a boxing glove. Wallace believes that Stovich will prove plenty tough and may upset Moran.

Reale To Return
Having beaten Joey Simms in Greenville, Chuck Arnett will battle Mickey McCoy. Simms was the rage in Greenville until Chuck landed a right upon his jaw. When the plaudits were given out at the end of the slugfest it was Arnett who got the decision and the plaudits.

Billy Reale will take out time long enough from plowing in Princeton to take on Tommy Pipher, another new face from Youngstown. Reale hurt his hand and took a long lay-off. He claims that constant rest and care has strengthened his mitt and he is eager to try it out.

Two bitter ring rivals will toss gloves when Buck Chambers of West Pittsburg meets Chuck Swatvik of New Castle. Mickey Solomon is training Swatvik. Johnny Banko is putting Chambers in condition. The rivalry is so hot Mickey and Johnny make grimaces at each other.

Hal Brooks, the Moravia street slugger, who scored a win in Alliance, will take on Harold Patterson of Youngstown, and Baby Retardo of Ellwood City will tackle Mickey O'Day of Youngstown. Johnny Kovach, another newcomer, will oppose Larry Regan of Butler, who will make his debut here.

Baseball Season Is Just Around Corner

Two Weeks From Today Major League Teams Will Pry Off 1939 Lid

New York Yankees Still Have Too Much Power; National League Open Fight

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 4.—Just two weeks from today, specifically on April 18, the major league pennant races will start and from there on out it will be slam-bang and let the lame and halt fall where they may while the athletes who are sound of limb and wind go ahead to whatever accomplishments they can achieve.

As a matter of fact, the 1939 campaigns in the American and National leagues are going to be determined by an abundance of crimples. Virtually every club has been stricken more or less and hopes will be based largely on how the various hospital cases come through their convalescence.

This is especially true in the National league, afflicted this time as it probably never has been before by nearly every malady that might befall ball players. As usual, we'll all make those profound pre-season predictions, when the time comes around, dishing out the likely order of finish for the clubs in both circuits, but from the present outlook that little word "if" is going to get a terrific workout from the alleged experts in all the prophetic prattle you read.

What About Gehrig?
A sample? If Lou Gehrig recovers from fallen arches and sprained shanks, the New York Yankees, American league and world champions, might win easily for the fourth straight time, but if he doesn't avoid a protracted slump tracing to senile miseries the Yanks could find might bog down just enough to let some not and eager club nose through to the flag.

The Chicago Cubs, National league bell-weather, view with some alarm the sad, disheartening plight of Rowdy Richard Bartell, the shortstop. He has rheumatism in his ankle.

It just so happens that one-legged shortstops are not fashionable this spring, but for that matter neither are one-armed pitchers, although the latter are so abundant as to be like a plague. The Cubs have one of them in the person of Dizzy Dean. Not to be outdone by the Cubs, the Giants have two-pitcher Carl Hubbell, who is back in the hospital, and pitcher Hal Schumacher, who is a possibility for a return, engaged with the doctors.

The Giants also don't know yet whether Burge Whitehead is going to play any second base after his retirement of one season.

And for some more of those "ifs" you can take pitchers Lefty Grove of the Boston Red Sox. Schoolboy Rowe of the Detroit Tigers, Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Indians, Wes Ferrell of the Yankees and Van Lingle Mungo to mention only the more prominent flingers who may or may not come through. They all have ailments of one kind or another.

The foregoing is far from a complete list, but it gives you a rough idea. In fact, the pennants may be won and lost in the hospital wards.

Lewis George Wins Grappling Letter

(Special To The News)
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 4.—Lewis George, 109 East Home street, is one of nine freshmen at the University of Illinois recommended for numerals in wrestling by Freshman Coach Allen Saper.

Since competition for the wrestling team, second in the Big Ten this season, is very keen, winning numerals indicates outstanding ability in the sport.

Numerals are awarded upon the successful completion of the semester's scholastic work, a provision established by the athletic council as an incentive to study.

Slovak Club Will Meet Wednesday

Johnny "Snowy" Seinkner has called a meeting of all members of the Slovak Club interested in playing baseball this year, for the club rooms at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

It is understood that Steve Russell old time ball player is slated for the managerial job with the Slovak Club this year. Nothing definite has been done yet in regard to the Slovak Club entering the City Baseball league, but there is a strong feeling that they will take out the tenth franchise in the popular loop.

There are a number of fine young ball players in the club and if enough interest is shown the Slovaks can put a fast team on the field.

GRINNEN TO COACH WAMPUM

Johnny Grinnen, for years one of the sweetest baseball players in this section of the country, has signed to coach the Medusa team of Wampum, which holds a franchise in the Lawrence County Baseball loop, according to Frank Shubert. Jim Butchelli will pilot the team this year.

Shubert also announced the signing of three other players, Nick Scala, George Comar and Chester Bognosky.

Scala played short for Wampum in '38 and was one of the classiest shortstops in the loop. In fact, it would not be surprising were major league scouts to watch Nick this season.

George Comar is a husky right-hand pitcher who twirled for the Shelby Socials of Ellwood City last season. He also has signed and Manager Butchelli expects Comar to turn in some spectacular pitching.

Chester Bognosky played the hot corner for the Shelby Socials of Ellwood City last season. He signed the dotted line several days ago. He had a good season in the field and at bat last year.

As soon as he learns how to make better turns he is going to break Johnny Weismuller's record for the 100-yard free style said Matt Mann, manager of the Mahoning A. A. swimming coach of Waldemar Tomski as the Detroit boy took to the pool at Ann Arbor, Mich., for a practice swim today. Weismuller's record for the 100 yards is 51 seconds flat, which was made April 5, 1927. Tomski had turned in a mark of 52.1 for the 100 in a 75-foot pool.

Ferry Von Raubfelsen of Giralda, a Doberman Pinscher Monday in Chicago was hailed best of 1,259 pure breeds entered in the thirty-eight International Kennel club show. The "immigrant" dog which a few months ago was a pet in a barber shop in Augsburg, Germany won the grand award as the climax of a two days show with which had an array of 3,070 dogs. The dog owner is Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge, of Madison, N. J.

Joe Chamaco, New York added to his lead in the national three-cushion billiard championship in New York, yesterday, when he beat Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., now representing Hartford, Ct., 50 to 42 in 45 innings. Each had a high run of five.

The Columbus A. A. baseball team formerly the Mahoning A. A. will make a determined bid to try and upset West Pittsburg as the City League champions this summer. It was announced by Manager Michael "Mike" Orlando today.

The Columbus team held a meeting last night at the Christopher Columbus Club and made plans for the coming season. A baseball school for all youngsters who care to attend will be held at the E. & A. Field from May 1 to 7. All the youngsters will need will be shoes and gloves (not uniforms).

The Columbus A. A. will have a spaghetti supper at the Seventh Ward Club rooms on the night of April 30, it was announced.

ARCHERY CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

Following the open meeting for rules discussion, there will be a business meeting for the members of the County ump loop, it was announced.

FACTORS MEET TONIGHT

The Factor girls basketball team will have a meeting tonight at the Falcon hall at 7:30 o'clock to formulate plans for their coming floor trip which will take them to Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., on April 15 and 16. Joe Factor, manager of the team, announced today that the Factors had been awarded a handsome trophy for being the best equipped and best dressed girls in the tourney.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

William Reiser, Jr., Watertown, Wis., today led the All-Events in the A. B. C. in progress at Cleveland, with 1,971 pins and Carl Nagle of Gowanda, N. Y., head the singles with 714 pins. In the doubles, S. Shelley and L. Schmidt of Wooster, O., topped the teams with 1,332 pins and in the five-man event Old Rading Beers of Hazelton was on top with 3,045 pins.

Single G is 29 years old today. During his fourteen year's career on the country's tracks he started 155 times, won 99 races, was second 33 1/2, third 14 1/2, fourth three times and unplaced in only five. But despite his record, Single G was a trailing off into the unknown realms not listed in the equine "400" books.

In recognition of his record, the National Trotting association made Single G a standard bred.

Both Louis and Roper, after a week-end rest, were ready to resume the training grind again today. Louis spent the week-end visiting with friends in San Bernardino, while Roper took the opportunity to appear on a radio broadcast and inform the world at large that he was going to knock out the champ.

Both fighters were to increase their sparring rounds today, going up to six and seven rounds instead of the customary four.

Legislator Asks For P.I.A.A. Probe

Would Investigate Charges Of Arrogance Made Against Secretary Edmund Wicht

BERWICK INCIDENT STIRS UP TROUBLE

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 4.—An investigation of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association was demanded in the legislature today by Rep. Eckley Hoyt, R., Columbia.

Hoyt asked appointment of a joint legislative committee of three representatives and two senators to probe charges of "gross arrogance" against P. I. A. A. Secretary Edmund Wicht.

The joint committee, under Hoyt's resolution, would report to the general assembly on the advisability of placing the duties and responsibilities of the association under the state department of public instruction. The association is now an independent agency conducting athletic programs for its 800 member high schools in the state.

Hoyt accused Wicht of having a "disposition to punish any school system that dares to protest or oppose his high-handed and arbitrary decrees."

Wicht Criticized
Wicht recently was criticized severely by Berwick high school officials when they withdrew their basketball team from the eastern Pennsylvania championship play-off because Wicht refused to allow an extra day of rest for the players. The association secretary was accused of using "dictatorial" tactics and of endangering the health of the players by demanding completion of the play-off game on the specified date.

The Hoyt resolution stated that the P. I. A. A. has failed to administer its program faithfully in that there has been a noticeable trend "toward commercialism, for the gain and profit of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association."

Hoyt is a native of the county in which Berwick is located.

Nobils Enter Softball Loop

Saul Presents Opposition Of Railroaders To Canal

W. T. Saul, general chairman, Order of Railway Conductors, Pennsylvania R. R. Lines west, voiced opposition, to Congressman L. E. Graham, 26th district, and to New Castle council, relative to the proposed construction of the Pittsburgh, Ohio River and Lake Erie canal. Saul also requested council to recall the body's endorsement of the proposed canal, in a communication presented Monday.

He said in the communication, that he was surprised to learn that the council had endorsed the canal proposal and upon inquiry "learned that there was no public hearing held on the question and I am fearful that Congressman Graham and his associates at Washington, having in mind your action x x x might believe that the action was taken in accord with the majority of the citizens' desire of New Castle represented by you councilmen.

Saul wrote that "if that is your opinion, gentlemen, this will advise you that I, and thousands of others are very much in disagreement with such opinion. I do not know who were the authors of the resolution, approved by your body. But I do feel that you are public servants elected by the people, to represent all the people of the city and I feel that when a resolution comes to your body such as this, involving so many people and as large an amount of money as the building of the canal would involve, that you should in all fairness to all your constituents, at least endeavor to ascertain the wishes of the majority."

Saul's letter said that "in my opinion, you have, in this instance, dismally failed to take us into consideration, other than those who presented the resolution to your body. There are a number of reasons and I feel you gentlemen are acquainted with them, why this canal should not be built."

He said that one of the reasons is the railroads at the present time are not receiving in excess of one half of the business, freight and business that they could handle x x x and "I feel many of your constituents are of the same opinion, why this unnecessary outlay of approximately 260 million dollars or three hundred million dollars is justified at this or any other time, surely it cannot be considered a war or protective measure, regardless of the opinion of the secretary of war, but on the other hand, I feel it is nothing more or less than a 'pork barrel' measure and having in mind the state of the finance of the country at this time, it seems foolish to me to create in any way, this additional burden on the taxpayers when the transportation of the district at hand, are fully taken care of."

Saul said he feels sure council will agree that the railroads are among the heaviest taxpayers, state and federal, and action such as council has advocated would in his opinion, decrease their earning capacity that the expected revenue due from taxes to the state and nation, would not be forthcoming.

He wrote that "the railroads, as well as the lake ports between Sandusky and Erie, not to mention Buffalo, Huron and other lake terminals, would be seriously handicapped due to the fact that the traffic rates on the proposed canal would, if it is performed, the rates claimed for it, threaten freight rates and the tonnage now enjoyed by the railroads above mentioned and the railroads in connection therewith. Action of this kind, the latter points out, would surely disrupt the situation at Conneaut, O. to such an extent that the Bessemer & Lake Erie would practically go out of business."

Saul wrote council that if this canal is authorized there would be moved into this canal district numerous steam shovels and equipment for excavation purposes. The number of men employed in the building of the canal would be an amount necessary to man the machinery which would not in Saul's opinion, benefit the citizenry in any way that you represent, as we have little, if any steam shovel operators in the city.

"After the canal has been completed, then we would find that the barge lines in operation on this canal would employ about the same class of men as that now employed by our river and canal systems wherever they may exist, that is, stevedores and common labor, at a rate that would not in any way match up with the rates paid railroad men, many of whom are located within your city."

Saul's letter then said that if the canal is built that "we would find high class, formerly well paid citizens, many of whom live and own homes in this city, walking the streets and in their places, we would find manning the slow moving barge equipment that is used on such waterways, poorly paid stevedores and the like."

The general chairman of the O. R. C. then said: "Another question I would ask you gentlemen is, what benefit could be derived by the city were this canal to be built? I am sure you will agree that it would be a continual source of expense, as the measurements of the canal provide for a 12 foot depth channel and a 250 foot width. This depth would not remain at these figures very long, therefore, it would cost an enormous amount of money to keep this canal dredged out so that even the canal barge could operate."

Saul opined that the council should have held open hearings before the resolution endorsing the canal was passed. Had this been done, he declared, "your body would not have usurped the prerogatives you did in approving this added means of unnecessary transportation."

Saul asserts that if the canal is built it will handle nothing but freight and this would embrace the slowest freight moving commodity, principally coal and ore which is very life blood of the roadroads now operating through this city. "I wonder," he asks, "what method you gentlemen have in mind would take over the movement of passengers through this district?"

"Surely, you could not expect the railroads to move the passenger traffic, which by the way, is a very unprofitable business, and allow the big paying slow moving business to be taken over by other methods of transportation. In other words, it appears to me you gentlemen are of the opinion that the railroads would still do business and continue to handle passengers even if the freight business was practically taken away from their rails. With this thought on your part, if such is your thought, nobody that has any experience in railroad business, would agree with."

Saul writes that the city of Youngstown and the surrounding boroughs, in his opinion would be the only beneficiaries of the water route. He asserts it would hurt the railroad business in Youngstown to the extent that railroads now living in New Castle, who are working in Youngstown, would no longer need to travel to Youngstown to earn a livelihood. "There would not be any work in Youngstown for them and they must of necessity, under conditions such as this, go or return to the relief rolls." He says that the relief rolls and WPA now are heavily over-burdened.

He asked that council give all the people a chance to express their wishes by recalling the endorsement of the canal resolution hold open meetings and hear arguments for and against the project.

Pittsburgh Rector Is Trinity Speaker

Outstanding Minister Will Preach In Episcopal Church Wednesday

The last of the special preachers at the Wednesday evening lenten services in Trinity church at eight o'clock is the Rev. J. Fredrik Virgin, rector of St. Peter's church, Pittsburgh. He is one of the leaders in the neighboring diocese of Pittsburgh, being the efficient, hard-working chairman of the social service work for the whole metropolitan area, known favorably among the social workers of the Steel City for his insight and original ideas. Mr. Virgin is a preacher of great earnestness and power. In his planning activities for the location of new churches in unchurched areas of Pittsburgh he has shown himself to be a man of affairs and vision for the future. This will be his first visit to Trinity church and this city. Efforts have been made to secure him before, but because of his many engagements they were unavailing. He is a member of the commission of social service of the province of Washington and of the five dioceses of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The service will be the penitential office, with hymns, offering, closing prayers and benediction. The senior choir will lead the singing. Miss Isabel T. Johnson, organist.

The holy communion is at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow and Maundy Thursday, which marks the anniversary of the institution of the sacrament in the upper room.

Junior Class Will Contribute $100 To Dormitory Fund

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, April 4—Westminster college's junior class will donate one hundred dollars to inaugurate the new dormitory fund, according to Clayton Taylor, Clarendon junior class president, money coming from the profit of the junior prom.

Modernistic decorations by Chas. Reynolds, Houston, and music by Jimmy Earle and his Pittsburgh orchestra made unnecessary the usual waste for dance programs, expensive favors, and extras generally, which created the surplus.

This donation will still leave money in the junior class fund. Taylor attributes the dance's success to careful planning by individual committee members and student cooperation.
